MD-MPH DUAL DEGREE SCHOLARSHIPS

The School of Medicine and Public Health has scholarship funds available for MD-MPH students seeking support for their public health training and education. These scholarships support tuition and fees for one year while the student is enrolled in the MPH program.

Farrell Shapiro MD-MPH Scholarship
Since 2005, the School of Medicine and Public Health has supported the public health education of MD-MPH students, using funds donated to the School in recognition of the leadership of former Dean Phillip Farrell. The income from this endowment is intended to encourage and support MD-MPH students interested in integrating public health in their medical education. MPH capstone projects should include work with an underserved population, in a community setting and/or focusing on a health disparity. One (1) $15,000 award per year will be available.

Wisconsin Medical Alumni Association (WMAA) Perlson Scholarship
The WMAA Sam Perlson MD–MPH Dual Degree Scholarship is a $10,000 scholarship given to up to six medical students during their MPH year. Scholarships are awarded to students committed to public health initiatives, those interested in serving the needs of underserved populations and have an interest in practicing medicine in Wisconsin.

Eligibility
Eligible students must be pursuing a Master of Public Health degree in addition to a medical degree at the University of Wisconsin - Madison.

Financial Support
Selected recipients will receive a scholarship ranging up to $15,000 which will be applied directly to their tuition for one year while the student is enrolled in the MPH program.

Scholarship Award Criteria
Public Health and Medicine Scholarship recipients will be selected on the basis of their academic merit, public health experience, and public health goals. Award determinations will be made after a review of the students’ application materials for entry into the MPH program.

Application materials required:
- CV
- SMPH transcript
- 2 letters of recommendation
- Personal statement

A condition to those who accept these scholarship awards is full time enrollment in the MPH program.
