Brave Girl Eating:
Inside One Family's Experience of Anorexia

A book reading by author and parent
Harriet Brown

Friday, October 1st
12:00 noon
University of Wisconsin-Madison
Health Sciences Learning Center
750 Highland Avenue, Madison
Room 1244

Harriet Brown is a journalist, a professor - and mother to a teenager who almost died from anorexia. Please join us on October 1st for an insightful and supportive discussion about one family’s intimate experience with an eating disorder. Harriet Brown will speak about her daughter’s “slow, painful, infinitely courageous climb back to health” and share readings from her new book, Brave Girl Eating: A Family’s Struggle With Anorexia.